

Dear

Welcome to our July newsletter. Overall, work has slowed down after completing a number of major projects this month. If any of our customers require quality engineering at competitive prices, now is a good time to contact Marty.

Quote of the month:

We learn wisdom from failure much more than from success; we often discover what we'll do, by finding out what we'll not do; and probably he who never made a mistake never made a discovery.

Networking

Successful collaborative meetings were held this month with HunterNet and AIDN

Our general meeting at HunterNet this month (17th July) included a site tour of member Newcastle Field Maintenance, a fabrication company in the Hunter. Marty thought he knew a lot about welding (even though he's not a qualified welder!) but ended up discovering the advances in different processes that are now being used for an even stronger weld.

On the 10th July, AIDN and HunterNet held a meeting to foster further collaboration and a stronger alliance to share knowledge and extend the network. The meeting held at HunterNet's office was well attended with many of AIDN's Sydney staff present.

Avoca Engineering's skilled staff

The World Skills competition is on for 2012. Avoca Engineering is represented.....again.

Everyone at Avoca Engineering wishes Luke Daniels (CNC Machinist) the best of luck at this year's World

Skills competition. Luke is just out of his apprenticeship and feels confident enough to enter this prestigious event. Our company has won an award in this competition before and we have no doubt Luke will bring home the medal. Avoca Engineering prides itself in quality and expertise.

Business awards night

The Central Coast Business Awards are being held on the 18th August, 2012. The event will be held at The Showroom, Mingara. A worthwhile event to support and be involved with.

With the Central Coast recently recognized as a region, this year's event will celebrate innovation, product development and overall business success. This event is the most recognizable and prestigious on the Central Coast.

Sports take of the month

35 year old Cadel Evans (aka Cuddles) was unable to repeat his Tour De France success of 2011 this year. While Evans was disappointed, he remains only the third Australian to make the top 10 overall in the Tour. When asked if he'd return in 2013 he said, "Absolutely, absolutely – and I think I will be a bit hungrier."
